WALLACE MAY LEVY IMPORT TAX AT ONCE

Cobb Is Native of Tennessee But Has Been Identified With Georgia
For Several Years.

WASHINGTON, May 22.—Secretary of Agriculture Wallace today announced the appointment of C. A. Cobb, Atlanta farm publication editor, as administrator of the cotton section of the agricultural relief act recently passed by congress.

The appointment was made upon the recommendation of Senator Ellison S. Smith, of South Carolina, author of the cotton provision, and other southern senators.

Mr. Cobb is the editor of the Southern Ruralist and the Progressive Farmer. An early appointment of an administrator was insisted upon by southern members because of the importance of early action in connection with the new cotton crop.

Mr. Cobb is a native of Tennessee, but has been identified with Georgia for several years. He is a member of the Georgia Farm Bureau and the Georgia Cotton Producers Association.

Secretary Wallace tonight was left with the problem of how to handle his chief powers under the farm adjustment act—and to use the proceeds to finance acreage-reduction programs on farms.

A few hours after he called on Secretary Hull, the state department announced that imposition of compensatory import taxes, required under the farm law, would not be in violation of the international tariff treaty.

The ruling cleared the way for an early start in the formulation of administrative policies by Wallace and his aids to reduce the supply of American farm commodities and seek

Talmadge-Road Fight Is No Nearer Solution

The long dispute between Governor Eugene Talmadge and the state highway commission appeared no nearer solution Monday as employees of the highway department neared the end of their second pay month, salaries being held up because the board has refused to comply with the governor's demands that five engineers be removed from the pay roll.

The highway department has approximately $1,500,000 in its credit in the treasury, but no warrants have been drawn on the approved budget because the governor will not sign a warrant which will include pay for engineers whom he has removed from the pay roll.

Since the budget's approval the department has dismissed 250 employees, some of them being removed by Engineer B. P. McWhorter, one of the five men the governor has ordered taken from the pay roll.

ATTEMPT TO OUST GRAND JURY LOST

An attempt to oust members of the May-June term Fulton grand jury on the charge that they were illegally drawn was lost in Fulton superior court Monday when Judge W. H. Seary Jr., of Griffin, presiding in the disqualification of Judge Virlyn B. Moore, refused to allow Phil C. McDuffie, Atlanta attorney, to file proceedings.

Judge Seary refused to allow P. C. McDuffie to file proceedings.

An attempt to oust members of the May-June term Fulton grand jury on the charge that they were illegally drawn was lost in Fulton superior court Monday when Judge W. H. Seary Jr., of Griffin, presiding in the disqualification of Judge Virlyn B. Moore, refused to allow Phil C. McDuffie, Atlanta attorney, to file proceedings.

McDuffie announced that he would not appeal from Judge Seary's ruling, because of lack of time to obtain a hearing in the appellate court before the end of the term, although Judge Seary indicated he would sign a bill of exceptions.

Judge Seary said that he was not concerned with local affairs in Fulton county, but had set the hearing because he felt that the matter should be passed on publicly. Judge Seary said that McDuffie could not see clearly where McDuffie was vitally interested in the attempted disqualification of the jurors, nor that the jurors were vitally interested. Quo warranto proceedings may be brought against public officials only, and grand jurors are not public officials, Judge Seary said.

"Those most interested would be the criminal classes who welcome anything that weakens the court," Judge Seary said. "Law-abiding citizens would be the ones to suffer. It is unimportant that the matter has reached its present status."

Attorneys Marion Smith, James A. Branch and Edgar Watkins presented to Judge Seary an affidavit signed by Judge Moore, in which the jurist denied the allegation that he drew the jurors illegally. Judge Moore said in the paper that the names were drawn in open court on April 14, during hearing of a case, and that H. G. Bradley, deputy sheriff, made up the list in his presence. Corroborative affidavits by Bradley and Charles M. Paschal, deputy clerk, were presented.

McDuffie said he was seeking a probe of county affairs "in the interest of justice and not an effort to besmirch the court." He charged that "administration of law in Fulton county has collapsed." Branch said the proceedings resulted from a campaign launched by "some dissatisfied parties to sling mud and slime at the courts."

R. F. C. Seeks Inquiry
Into Rail Purchases

ST. LOUIS, May 22.—(AP)—The Reconstruction Finance Corporation today asked the United States district court for an impartial investigation of certain purchases and sales of property made by the Missouri Pacific railroad in recent years while the Van Sweringen brothers held control.

Pointing to purchase of terminal property in Kansas City for $13,000,000, and of the St. Joseph (Mo.) Belt railway for $4,600,000, the petition sets forth that amounts set forth in contracts "are greatly in excess of actual considerations and greatly in excess of the reasonable market values of the property at that time."

The Missouri Pacific railway acquired the property, it is alleged, by purchase from Terminal Shares, Inc., which acquired it from the Allegheny Corporation, the original purchaser.

In its motion, the Finance Corporation stated the road has defaulted on $25,134,000 loaned it by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, and that creditors are entitled to have a thorough investigation made of the recent purchases and sale of the property. The court is asked to appoint a disinterested trustee or several disinterested trustees to investigate.

JAPS' OCCUPATION OF PEIPING FEARED WITHIN FEW DAYS

Ancient Chinese City
May Become Battleground As Nipponese
Forces Continue Advance.

PEIPING, China, May 22.—(Tuesday)—Chinese troops were making preparations today to battle for the defense of this city of nearly two millions in Peiping's outskirts.

The belief continued that truce negotiations were not proceeding smoothly and that hostilities were likely unless an agreement is quickly reached.

It was rumored that General Ho Ying-ching, nationalist government war minister, who is now in charge of Peiping's defense, ordered the Chinese to evacuate this ancient capital but there was no evidence that this was taking place.

The Japanese troops, because of their nervousness in Peiping, were reported to have stiffened their demands to such an extent that the Chinese were not inclined to accept such peace terms.

A Japanese bombing plane made a half-hour reconnaissance over the city this morning. It flew low but drew no fire from Chinese anti-aircraft guns along the city's walls.

Foreign military observers predicted that Peiping itself would be a battleground. Japanese residents were preparing to evacuate into their legation quarters.

The vanguard of the advancing Japanese army was still in the vicinity of Tungchow, 13 miles east of here. Many reports said that Japanese air bombers resumed attacks further northward.

Thirty American missionaries were reported still at their posts at Tungchow.

TOKYO DENIES KNOWLEDGE OF PLAN FOR OCCUPATION

TOKYO, May 22.—(AP)—The war office said today that it had no official confirmation of reports contained in a Rengo (Japanese) news agency dispatch from North China to the effect that occupation of Peiping was planned.

The dispatch said that the 14th infantry brigade had already occupied Tungchow, 13 miles east of Peiping. A spokesman for the war office said that he believed actual occupation of Peiping unlikely. He thought it probable, however, that the Japanese army would halt just outside the city wall and await peace overtures from the Chinese.

It was indicated by the Rengo dispatch that the Japanese forces intended to occupy the city despite denials by Lieutenant General Kuniaki Koiso, chief of staff of the Japanese combined army.

The report said Tungchow was seized by the forces of General Hattori and that two battalions pressed on toward Peiping.

An Rengo dispatch from Shan-hai-kwan said that the Manchukuo forces of General Tchiang had occupied Lufei, about 20 miles northeast of Tungchow, in co-operation with Japanese air forces.

Haden and Hatcher
Get 30-Day Respite

Governor Eugene Talmadge Monday granted a 30-day respite to Charles Haden and Ross Hatcher Jr., Macon youths under sentence to die Friday for assault upon a young white woman. The prison commission unanimously had recommended that the sentences be commuted to life imprisonment.

The governor said that he was ordering the respite so that he might study the case thoroughly and give those favoring and those opposing the commutation an opportunity to be heard.

It was learned Monday that the application of Peggy French, Atlanta slayer, for executive clemency would be presented to the governor today with the approval of the prison commission. Two of the three members of the commission already have given approval to the application of Mrs. French and the commission chairman, E. L. Rainey, said Monday he would decide today on whether he would grant the respite.

Mrs. French is serving from 8 to 12 years for the slaying of John S. C. railroad telegrapher, with whom she had a love affair.

Jews Ask Roosevelt
To Halt German Acts

WASHINGTON, May 22.—(AP)—A resolution asking President Roosevelt to "use his good offices to bring about a cessation of the wanton attacks upon the life, property and honor of the Jews in Germany" was adopted unanimously today at the closing session of the American Jewish Congress.

A resolution calling for the boycotting by American Jews of all German goods encountered rough going in a special subcommittee and the indications were that it might fail to reach at vote because of its controversial nature.

Beer Supply Increases, Trade Brisk, Price Drops

Dealers Assured of No Molestation, Beverage
Rushed to City by Train; 20 Cents
Per Bottle Now General Price.

With dealers assured of no further molestation for at least 10 days, beer was being rushed into Atlanta by the railroad Monday, and as the supply increased and the competition grew keener the high prices of Saturday and Sunday disappeared and most establishments fixed their prices at 20 cents a bottle.

One of the city's largest drug chains took out licenses for all of its stores and started the sale of beer at 20 cents a bottle. Other dealers soon followed and by Monday night most of them were able to get only 20 cents a bottle for beer they bought during the week-end in anticipation of getting 25, 30 and 35 cents.

City Clerk J. Henson Tatum reported that $300 worth of licenses were sold during the day. In all, the city treasury has been enriched by a total of $2,075 since the beer legalization ordinance was approved by city council last Friday.

That beer dealers will not be molested further, for at least 10 days, was assured Monday when it was announced that the two test cases made by Sheriff James I. Lowry Saturday against Jim Falks and Roy Young had not yet been docketed by the criminal court of Atlanta, and that when they were docketed they would not be set for trial until some day next week.

The court is not in session this week, Judge Jesse M. Wood is spending the week in Brunswick.

Leonard Crawford, assistant solicitor of the criminal court, said Monday that he expected a report this morning from state chemists, who have been analyzing the beer seized Saturday at Falks' and Young's places. He said that if the beer showed an alcoholic content accusations would be filed against the men and the dates for their trials set.

Meanwhile, scores of other dealers continued the sale of beer without interruption, the demand continuing to increase as the price slumped.

Most of the beer received in Atlanta came by train, transporters apparently not desiring to risk being caught by county sheriffs between Atlanta and the Tennessee line.

County police Sunday halted a beer truck just outside of the city, but when the driver produced a bill of lading showing that the shipment was being taken from Chattanooga to Jacksonville he was ordered released by Chief George Mathieson. Chief Mathieson said he would seek a ruling today from Solicitor-General John A. Boykin on whether or not he should halt beer trucks operating between states which have legalized beer by action of their legislatures.

Governor Eugene Talmadge continued silent Monday on the demands for an extra session of the Georgia general assembly to take up beer legalization.

It developed Monday that beer

WORK IS ORDERED AT STATE ASYLUM BAPTISTS ASSAIL 'WET' ROOSEVELT

Milledgeville. Additions
To Be Started at Once;
Board Approves Plan.

The board of control Monday gave unanimous approval to Governor Eugene Talmadge's plan for construction of temporary annexes to the state hospital at Milledgeville and work on the new buildings will be started in a day or two, it was announced by Arthur Lucas, chairman of the board.

The new buildings, which are to be constructed by skilled convicts especially assigned to the work, will be completed in 300 days at which time more than 300 insane persons now confined in the various jails of the state will be moved into the structures.

At the same meeting, the board referred to a special committee composed of its executive and Milledgeville hospital committees a proposal by E. E. Lindsey, of Rome, a new member of the board, that 102 of the 802 employees at the hospital be eliminated and that the salaries of the others be drastically reduced. Marion H. Allen, of Milledgeville, also a member of the board, submitted a report opposing the reduction of the salaries of employees and also any lowering of salaries. Dr. G. H. Shaw, of Augusta, chairman of the special committee which looked into the institution's financial situation, was ill and did not submit a report.

The board voted to relieve Dr. Roger Swint of his duties as manager and steward and appointed a committee to select a manager and steward. It was announced that Dr. Swint would continue as superintendent, the business administration being turned over to another because it has proved unworkable for the past several years. The separation of the business and medical administration was recommended by Chairman Lucas.

Immediately after the meeting, Governor Talmadge went into conference with members of the prison commission and it was announced that the prisoners who will build the temporary annexes to the institution would be ready to begin work in a day or two.

Wednesday Is Fourth Jinky Day;

BY THE JINKY EDITOR.
Never did I see such smiles. Bright and early on Monday morning the prize winners started calling at headquarters at 157 Peachtree Arcade for their prizes.

One bright-eyed miss came in and, after being given her prize, exclaimed: "Gee, I never had any idea at all I would win a prize. The design I made was so simple and easy."

Another said: "That's the easiest money I ever made. My mother paid me to make a design and I just cut a few of the Jinkys and sent them in. It didn't take me more than ten minutes, and what a nice prize I won."

All day long the winners of various prizes came in at intervals, each happy and smiling. It is no wonder, for cutting Jinkys is fun. And then to be paid for it is almost beyond belief. But that is just what the stores cooperating in the Jinky contest are doing. They are giving you a Jinky contest. They are giving you a Jinky contest. They are giving you a Jinky contest.

Wednesday is the only day Jinkys may be entered, and they must be entered at 157 Peachtree Arcade—Jinky headquarters. Don't let every one else in your neighborhood get ahead of you.

INCOME TAX HIKE TO AID FINANCING OF JOB PROGRAM

Levy on Dividends and Higher Gas Tax and Continuance of Excise Taxes for Year Approved.

WASHINGTON, May 22.—(AP)—The gigantic administration public works-industrial control bill was unanimously ordered reported to the house tonight by the ways and means committee, which, at the same time ordered continued for another year all of the excise taxes levied in the billion dollar tax bill enacted a year ago.

The re-enactment recommended by the committee came as a distinct surprise at a night session of the powerful group.

It would mean the continuation of tax levies due to expire on June 30, 1934, for 12 additional months, amounting to approximately half a billion dollars.

Chairman Doughton explained that Lewis D. Douglas, director of the budget, recommended this drastic step in order to maintain the stability of the federal government's credit and further to assure the sale of the $3,300,000,000 in bonds for the public works section of the far-reaching legislation.

In deciding to boost income tax rates, tax dividends and raise gasoline levies, however, the committee made a definite promise that as soon as the conditions of the treasury warrants, either from repeal of the eighteen amendment or from increased business conditions, the new taxes will be suspended.

Rejecting a modified sales tax by an 18-to-6 vote, the committee approved by 15 to 9 the program, which would increase the income tax to $221,000,000 annually necessary to fund the projected $3,300,000,000 public works bond issue.

The revenue state adopted provides an increase from 4 to 6 per cent in the tax rate on net incomes of $4,000, and an increase from 8 to 10 per cent in all above that amount to yield an estimated $46,000,000.

Making corporation dividends subject to the new income tax rates, the committee estimated that the repeal of the 18th amendment.

An additional tax of three-fourths of one cent on gasoline to replace the 18th amendment.

In addition, the committee approved an amendment to the $221,000,000 revenue program adopted earlier in the day, providing for the extension of the one-cent gasoline tax to meet the interest payments. This provision provides that President Roosevelt may by proclamation suspend the date of the repeal of the 18th amendment.

The president also would be authorized to suspend proposed new levies calling for increased income tax rates, a boom in the gasoline tax and the making of corporate dividends subject to the new income levies whenever the condition of the treasury was such as to justify suspension.

The action on extending the excise taxes, as explained by Representative Ragon, democrat, Arkansas, was due to the controversy in congress over the extension of the one-cent gasoline tax for one year, the reduction of postage for local letters and the transfer of the electricity tax from consumer to producers.

The ways and means committee unanimously approved the bill after this unexpected action was taken.

Roosevelt Industry Plan Causes Strike Failure

PATERSON, N. J., May 22.—(AP)—Only a dozen shops, employing a comparatively small number of the 7,500 silk workers in this city, responded to the strike called today, and the general opinion was that a proposed stabilization program of the industry had caused the strike's failure.

Union headquarters reported that a majority of the shops which struck settled their dispute almost at once, agreeing with manufacturers on a 40-hour week and a base weekly pay of $20.

The strike was called by the Associated Silk Workers' Union, an affiliate of the American Federation of Labor.

MITCHELL 'GIFTS' REVEALED IN TRIAL

U. S. Seeks to Prove Banker Paid Interest on His Wife's Stocks.

By LORENA HICKOK.
NEW YORK, May 22.—(AP)—The United States government today set out to prove to a jury in federal court that Charles E. Mitchell himself, by gifts to his wife in 1930 and 1931, actually paid interest due on National City bank stock he sold her after the crash in 1929.

Mitchell, former chairman of the National City bank, has said he sold 18,300 shares of National City bank stock to his wife at loss so great that his obligation to pay income tax for 1929 was wiped out. He is charged with having evaded payment of more than $850,000 in federal income tax in 1929 and 1930, and the government claims that the sale of the stock to Mrs. Mitchell was only a pretense.

To substantiate this charge, the federal attorney, George Z. Medall, read records and letters to the jury today to indicate that Mitchell paid back to his wife the interest money he said he quarterly in sums ranging from about $49,000 to $50,000. Records also were introduced to show that after each quarterly payment to her husband, Mrs. Mitchell's account with the City Bank Farmers Trust Company, a subsidiary of the National City bank, was overdrawn—once to the extent of $300,000—and that each time some of her securities were sold to meet the overdraft.

The only drama in the courtroom today was provided before Mitchell's jury had been called in this morning. Wazy Gordon, reputed beer baron, charged with having made false entries in the accounts of his bank, was postponed until after the close of Mitchell's trial.

Beer Baron Admits Presence Near Killings

NEW YORK, May 22.—(AP)—Wazy Gordon, alleged baron of a beer empire in New Jersey, admitted to police today he was in an Elizabeth, N. J., hotel when two of his associates were shot to death.

"Squat and Pudge," "Mr. W." as he is known in the racket, frankly acknowledged he was in the elaborate furnished eighth-floor hotel suite when Max Glassel and Max Greenberg were mysteriously shot to death on April 12.

I heard a noise and I got out quick, Gordon, whose real name is Irving Wexler, told Union county, New Jersey, authorities, who have been wanting to question him for a month. He said he was resting when the shootings occurred.

2 Suspects Arrested
In $300 Safe Blowing

A mad chase from near Stone Mountain to Atlanta was climaxed Monday afternoon with the arrest of two men who were held on suspicion of blasting and robbing a safe in the store of M. L. Brannon, eight miles north of Stone Mountain, at dawn Monday morning. The robbers entered the store through a rear window and after blowing the safe, escaped with $300, of which $200 was in gold coins.

Hearing the blast, neighbors of Brannon awakened to see two men jump into a car parked at the store and a chase was organized, but the robber car outdistanced the posse. Detectives Englebert and Berge were given a description of the rogues and the suspects, whose names were withheld, were arrested in Atlanta several hours later. Sheriff Griswell, of Gwinnett county, the scene of the robbery, came to Atlanta to return the men to the Lawrenceville jail. They denied knowledge of the crime, officers said.

Rebel Retreat to Hills
Reported in Havana

HAVANA, May 22.—(AP)—Reports reaching here today led this capital to believe rebels active in Santa Clara and Camaguey provinces last week have retired to the hills, probably dividing into small bands the better to avoid capture.

Only one band of any size was known definitely still to be in the field. Approximately 30 men, led by Gerardo Meneses, who was one of ex-President Mario G. Menocal's aides-camp in the latter's abortive revolutionary movement of 1931, was reported near Manicagua, in Santa Clara province.

By the Associated Press.

The world's progress toward outlawing war brought an official statement Monday that the United States would in the interests of peace, under certain circumstances, abandon its policy of international isolation.

The message was taken before the disarmament conference at Geneva by Norman H. Davis, American ambassador-at-large.

Declaring that an international race in armaments making eventually would throw the world into war, Davis said the United States was willing to go as far as any other nation in disarmament.

He said that America would confer with other nations in the event peace was menaced. If America agreed with the other countries concerning the identity of the aggressor nation, he continued, then it would refrain from any action to hinder collective efforts to restore peace.

Respect Blockade.

Members of the League of Nations believed Davis meant the United States would respect a blockade against a nation guilty of military aggression.

In Washington it was considered generally that the Davis speech respected the policy of American freedom from foreign entanglements but also paid heed to the demands of foreign nations that America give them

SHE ATE ALL-BRAN TWELVE YEARS WITH FINE RESULTS

Delicious Cereal Relieves Constipation

Read this very enthusiastic letter

"Something like eleven or twelve years ago, I began eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. When I started, it was called simply Kellogg's Bran, and I believe it was one of the first products of the kind on the market."

"My friends often laugh at my fondness for ALL-BRAN. It gives such a clean taste in the mouth, and I do not feel satisfied until I have had my ALL-BRAN."

"If the Kellogg Company should ever stop manufacturing ALL-BRAN, here is one who would be greatly disappointed."—Miss Amy Person University Park, Iowa.

Science says that ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to further aid regularly. Also iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of leafy vegetables. How much safer than taking patent medicines—often harmful. Just eat two tablespoons daily for most types of constipation. For serious cases, try it three times daily. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Sold in the red-and-green package. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

STORY OF 1819 VOYAGE RELATED AT SAVANNAH

Head of U. S. Shipping Board Speaks in Maritime Day Program.

SAVANNAH, Ga., May 22.—(P)—The authentic story of the old S. S. Savannah was interwoven with a plea for continued support and encouragement of the American merchant marine service here tonight as a part of the celebration of National Maritime Day.

Delving deep into the history of the American shipping industry, Captain Gatewood S. Lincoln, commissioner of the United States shipping board, Washington, unearthed the real story of the ship which 114 years ago sailed from this port on what proved to be the first transatlantic voyage of a steam vessel.

He also took occasion to urge continuation of existing mail contracts to privately-owned ships "to the end that American merchant ships shall continue, in peace and in war, to uphold the country's commercial and naval prestige on the trade routes of the world."

The S. S. Savannah, the dusty archives of the governmental offices in Washington disclosed, was built in New York in 1819, as a sailing vessel. She was 100 feet long, had a beam of 28 feet, and was 14 feet "deep."

She was a sturdy ship, and no remote idea that she would ever be propelled by steam entered the heads of her builders. Captain Lincoln said, But Captain Moses Rogers conceived the idea of fitting the ship with auxiliary steam power, and found financial backing in Savannah.

The old Savannah ship firm of Scarborough and Isaacs undertook the job of fitting engine, boiler and paddle wheels on the new sailing vessel. The idea was received with hoots and jeers, and the shipping world chuckled up its sleeve. The public openly scoffed. "She'll burn up," they said; "her engine will set her afire. She'll never make it to the other side."

But the work progressed, and an engine was rigged on deck. The boiler was placed on deck also, and paddle wheels of iron, different than those with which Robert Fulton was experimenting in that they were removable and collapsible, were fitted on. The wheels were so made to permit their removal and stowing on deck.

Emergency Work of Red Cross Group In Storm-Stricken Areas Concluded

GRiffin, Ga., May 22.—The disaster field workers of the American National Red Cross Monday completed the emergency work made necessary by the hail and windstorm in Spalding, Fayette, Coweta, Monroe, Butts, Jasper, Jones, Putnam and Baldwin counties.

The local Red Cross chapter officials in each of the counties affected by the disaster will continue the rehabilitation work over a period of several weeks. The Spalding county disaster work was left in charge of P. L. Bramblett, chairman of the Red Cross disaster service; John Harlow, county farm agent; Mrs. M. S. Sibley, co-home demonstration agent; Mrs. W. E. H. Searcy, chapter chairman, will have general supervision of the rehabilitation work of the Red Cross.

Stone J. S. Burton, chapter chairman; Mrs. Fred Stokes, chairman, volunteer work; and H. G. Wiley, county farm agent, who will supervise the Red Cross gardens and truck crops; Butts county—Miss Pauline Millard, chapter chairman, and Dr. B. M. Drake, county farm agent; Jasper county—J. S. Coggins and special committees; Coweta county—Mrs. N. B. Hudson, chapter chairman; D. F. Hungerford, county farm agent, and L. L. Hutchinson, chairman of the Senoia district work.

Crane said, "Over 1,100 gardens and truck plots have already been planted from the Red Cross seed sent to the damaged areas last week. Each family collection of Red Cross seed contained corn, sweet potato plants, collards, turnips, beans, peas, carrots, okra, squash, green-pod beans, pole beans, turnip, beet, onion sets and in some cases special collections and seeds were distributed in the communities where the Red Cross gardens are located."

"The fine co-operation given by the agricultural extension workers will enable the Red Cross gardens to give the proper supervision in the disaster area."

"An estimate of the damage caused by the hail and windstorm to the nine counties included badly damaged or totally destroyed, 1,925 acres of wheat; 3,400 acres of oats; 5,850 acres of corn; 8,250 acres of cotton; and 1,444 gardens were destroyed or badly damaged. There were 868 houses damaged. The orchards in some of the sections were severely damaged."

CONSTIPATED SCALP

Eliminate This Repellent
Condition

Many people suffer from chronic constipation of the scalp and never know it. Like bad breath, it is difficult to detect, except on others. And no one ever tells you, of course!

A clean, healthy scalp emits a clean, sweet odor. But a scalp which is constipated emits a repellent odor. The usual symptoms are: dandruff, falling hair, itching. Warnings that can't be ignored.

Hair grows from the roots through a tube or shaft, which opens onto the scalp. When this tube becomes clogged (constipated) by dried skin and other secretions, the hair cannot force its way through! The scalp cannot eliminate, cannot breathe! The scalp naturally becomes a prey to dandruff, falling hair, itching and other disorders—including bad odors.

Don't let scalp constipation cause you to give offense! Don't let scalp constipation rob you of luxuriant hair! Keep your scalp clean and open. Massage it for only one minute each morning with Krask's Hair Root Oil. This non-greasy, non-sticky oil dissolves hardened secretions. It penetrates down through the hair tubes—cleaning as it penetrates. It removes dead skin and other deposits. Krask's Hair Root Oil cleans and softens the scalp and keeps the hair tubes well oiled and lubricated.

In addition, it imparts lustre to the hair and keeps it in place. Stop scalp constipation today! Ask for Krask's Hair Root Oil at any drug counter.

This Week We Celebrate the Birthday of HENRY WOODFIN GRADY

Prophet of "The New South," Henry W. Grady, more than any other one man—through sheer force of personal courage and initiative—brought order and coordination out of the chaos and unrest of reconstruction days. His was the true Atlanta Spirit—the indomitable combination of faith and constructive effort that has meant so much to our city in the past, and can mean so much in the future.

"Surely here in the homes of the people lodge at last the strength and the responsibility of this Government, the hope and promise of this Republic."
—Henry W. Grady

"We now realize as we have never realized before our interdependence on each other; that we cannot merely take but we must give as well; that if we are to go forward we must move as a trained and loyal army willing to sacrifice for the good of a common discipline, because without such discipline no progress is made, no leadership becomes effective."
—Franklin D. Roosevelt

If Henry Grady Could Speak to Us today

In no uncertain manner would Henry W. Grady sound the clarion call today to rally to the courageous leadership of President Roosevelt—to lend every ounce of cooperation to the successful working out of our President's plans for agricultural and industrial rehabilitation and coordination . . . This bank, founded while Henry Grady was still a schoolboy in his teens, unhesitatingly pledges its facilities and its resources to the continued advancement of our City, our State and our Union.

UNCONDITIONAL 3-YEAR GUARANTEE
... it saves you $35 to $75

Majestic can offer you this remarkable guarantee because Majestic design and construction make possible such a guarantee.

See the Majestic Electro-Sealed COLD DOME. This dome of steel fused to steel encloses the heart of refrigeration—the motor and compressor. Within its walls, which dirt, dampness, and abuse cannot penetrate, the refrigerating unit runs in a bath of oil—good for a lifetime of wear.

In ordinary refrigerators the vital mechanism is exposed. No matter how good it is, in time it must suffer from that exposure. No refrigerator with exposed mechanism attempts to match Majestic's unconditional 3-year guarantee on the Electro-Sealed COLD DOME.

Compare guarantees. And compare prices—but don't be misled by apparently low prices on underdesigned refrigerators. You will discover that Majestic Refrigeration costs from $35 to $75 less than ordinary hermetically sealed refrigerators—and actually no more, size for size, than the exposed-mechanism type.

If you are interested in longer-lasting, better refrigeration—and greatest value for your money—be sure and see Majestic!

THE FOUR-POWER PACT.

The four-power pact, reported to have been informally accepted by England, France, Italy and Germany, while considerably less binding than it was in the shape first proposed by Mussolini, is still sufficient to allay the war scare which has been hanging over Europe for the past two months and should pave the way for the consideration of disarmament plans.

When Mussolini, following his conference with Prime Minister MacDonald, first promulgated the plan, it contemplated sharp arms reductions and the revision of many outstanding post-war treaties. France made immediate and vigorous objection to these provisions and evidently in the conferences which have followed stuck to her position stubbornly enough to bring about their elimination.

The pact as rewritten refers to these two controversial subjects only incidentally, leaving the treaty question to the League of Nations and disarmament to be threshed out in the discussions of the MacDonald-Roosevelt plan.

The four nations pledge themselves to rigorously observe for a period of ten years the "no force" agreement signed last December and to respect the territorial integrity of each other.

Succinctly, what the pact does is merely to guarantee that for a decade England, France, Italy and Germany will not go to war, whatever misunderstanding may arise. It means the end, for a period at least, of such strained situations as existed last year between Italy and France and as now exist between France and Germany.

The time that has been devoted to "war scare" situations, by the major nations of Europe, the animosities they have engendered and the huge costs for increased armaments and in loss of normal trade relations, will be saved, and the consideration of more far-reaching agreements on disarmament and international relations can proceed unhampered by these distracting national flare-ups.

To that extent, the four-power pact in its present shape is undoubtedly a useful step towards the ultimate goal of world peace and the removal from the taxpayers of all nations of the tremendous burden now being carried for the equipment and upkeep of huge standing armed forces.

DOLLARS IN DAIRYING.

More cows, better cows and the production of more cow feed should be the slogan of the Georgia farmer, writes G. F. Hunnicutt in a communication appearing elsewhere on this page, in which he comments on the announcement that one of the largest meat-packing companies of the country will erect a cheese plant at Macon, provided it can be assured of sufficient quantity of milk.

This widely known Georgia agricultural expert correctly takes the position that it "would be a calamity if the farmers of Georgia fail to furnish the necessary milk to make the plant a success."

The proposed capacity of the cheese plant, which would be Georgia's first, is 500,000 pounds per year. As it takes approximately a gallon of milk to make a pound of cheese, and a good cow

The Intelligence Service

Many newspaper readers in America must have wondered why so much ado was made at the Moscow trial of the six British engineers about the British intelligence service to which, it was admitted by John Simon, several of the accused belonged in the days of war. Not only in Moscow, but in most European capitals, the intelligence service is pictured as one of the most sinister organizations on earth. In France dozens of books appear on the subject of the British intelligence service every year. In the days when I had a taste for such things, I used to read those revealing volumes with avidity. They were enough to make your hair stand on edge.

The Tcheka in Russia was only child's play compared with the manipulations behind the scenes of the intelligence service. Personally, I know but a half dozen or so men who were or are actually connected with that branch of the secret police. There is no question about their shrewdness and diplomatic tact. Think only of Lawrence of Arabia, who not only won the whole Arab world for England, but who later fomented the revolt in Afghanistan that ousted King Amanullah, in punishment for having deserted and gone to Britain in 1914. Or take Mr. Sir John Philby, the virtual ruler of the middle east, who resides at Djeddah, where to all appearances he is an agent of an English service company.

Immensely capable men, with devotion to the interests of empire, which makes them hesitate before no obstacle, neither war, nor death, nor extreme personal risks, the intelligence service is represented in every country. One need not believe all that is said on its dark intrigues and schemes, but this much is certain of all the espionage and counter-espionage organizations in Europe, it is without question the most determined, the most capable, and the best informed. This is said in praise, for the dark and mysterious war-mongering that is going on.

THE CHINESE PUZZLE.

Recent announcement that the Canton government in China had addressed to the League of Nations a protest against what it predicted to be a forthcoming settlement between Japan and the Chinese national government at Nanking, reveals the difficulties surrounding the making and prolonging of treaties in the far east.

Japan bases its excursion into Manchuria on the violation of property rights granted her under treaties with the old imperial government of China. The Nanking government, set up after the downfall of the empire, has attempted in every way to set aside these treaties.

Now this same Nanking government is ready, it is reported, to sign a treaty of peace with Japan and Manchukuo, but the so-called "Canton government" now says it "will never accept any agreement Nanking may be coerced into making."

In many respects the Canton government is as strong as the nationalist government, of which it is supposedly a part. While the South China provinces which support Canton aided in the overthrow of the empire and the election of Chiang Kai-shek as president, they soon became disgruntled and at the time of the Shanghai attack by the Japanese had forsaken allegiance—and more important, the payment of taxes—to the Nanking government.

When the Japanese launched their attack, the Cantonese agreed to join in the defense, but their price was the resignation of Chiang. So a dummy president was put in by this wily Chinese leader, who remains in complete domination of the Nanking government, and the head of its armies.

Apparently Japan's claim that Manchukuo wants nothing south of the Great Wall is sincere, and the drives toward Peiping and Tientsin are for the purpose of forcing an agreement from the Chinese for the establishment of a neutral zone between those cities and the wall.

In view of the internal schisms in China, and the fast succeeding leaders, the province of Jehol would be constantly overrun with Chinese soldiers and bandits if such a neutral zone did not exist.

It seems clear that Japan has forced the Nanking government to agree to the establishment of the independent nation of Manchukuo in the former province of Manchuria, and it is to be hoped that the protest of the Canton "government" is more of a "face-saving" expedient than a serious effort to prevent the signing of the reported treaty.

Your Right To Burn Your Woods Depends On Your Ability To Control The Fire

By Robert Quillen

You doubtless have read of the havoc wrought by man's violation of nature's laws.

Nature's plan is one of checks and balances. Every creature that preys upon others is in turn preyed upon, lest it multiply too fast and claim the earth.

This balancing of one against another is so exact and so nicely adjusted that it cannot be disturbed in any degree without inviting disaster. This grim truth has been brought home to the people of America by their experience with plant pests.

A certain moth, comparatively harmless in its native land, was brought to America by a scientist who wished to study it. Liberated by accident and free of its natural enemies, it became the worst of pests. Efforts to control it have cost the people millions of dollars and the damage it has done is beyond computation.

Some years ago a lover of birds imported nine pairs of starlings from England. Nobody seems to know why a bird that is inoffensive in one land should be a pest in another, but in America the starling has multiplied until flocks of many thousands drive song birds from invaded communities and make such clamor at night that people cannot sleep.

In one of the West Indies, where rats had become a pest, the mongoose was imported from India to devour them. It did. But when the rats were gone, it began to devour all other small creatures. The birds and lizards were destroyed. And then numerous kinds of insects, formerly held in check by natural enemies, became a pest and a scourge.

In some parts of America the seed business is ruined because the insects that once pollinated the crops were destroyed by spraying and the burning of grass and weeds.

The evidence is almost unlimited. You can't interfere with nature's scheme of things without paying a penalty.

For reasons easy to comprehend, nature requires permanent mating of creatures whose young need the care of both parents. And if custom approved by the ages means anything, permanent mating is her plan for moists.

The opposite plan is common now, but it still flourishes best where moral restraint is least or where wealth and power have taught disregard for law and custom.

The sad part of it is that the penalty isn't limited to the guilty. The man who brought in the moths doesn't own the orchards they destroy.

DAY BY DAY

In Georgia's History

One hundred and fifty-two years ago today Colonel Clark, General Pickens and Colonel Lee decided to dialogue Gershom, who was a commission of J. C. McCallister, of Augusta; former Governor Thomas W. Hardwick, Thomas J. Shackleford and Lamar Rucker, both of Athens; U. S. Senator J. R. Slaton; General A. S. Skelton, of Hartwell; Arlin Robert, of Monroe; and State Senator J. T. Sisk, of Elberton.

May 23, 1778, Major General Howe in command of the southern forces, crossed the river and landed at what place?

For the two best 25-word answers to the foregoing question, Lee's Grand theater, co-operating with The Constitution, will award two pairs of guest tickets to see "Made on Broadway." Answers must be mailed to the Day-By-Day Editor, Constitution, and must bear a postmark not later than midnight tomorrow.

"Made on Broadway" is a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production, starring Delany Morgan, Madge Evans and Sally Eilers. This picture starts a week's run at the Grand Friday.

ELECTION IN WITH STAPLE PLANTING UNDER FARM LAW

an improvement in farm purchasing power.

The state department made it clear that Norman H. Davis, President Roosevelt's ambassador-at-large, had explained the import tax to interested parties during preliminary negotiations for the cotton act, and to remain in effect for the duration of the London economic conference. After the ruling it called Davis requesting that he explain to the cotton and other spokesmen for the European nations now gathered at Geneva.

Shortly before this, a group of southern senators, impatient to see the act passed, had indicated they intended to offer "new farm legislation" unless adequate financing for cotton acreage retirement is assured.

New Bill Hinted

Representative E. H. Tamm, Tennessee, the democratic leader, said in the house "a new farm bill" might be presented before adjournment. He declined to disclose the nature of the legislation.

However, Chairman Smith, democrat, South Carolina, of the senate agriculture committee, earlier in the day had said that other southern senators to urge Wallace to get cotton administration underway without delay.

It was suggested that if financing were not possible under processing taxes because of the true, the $300,000,000 industrial-public works bill might be amended to make $200,000,000 available to Wallace for retiring acres of cotton and other crops this summer.

Smith said he intended to propose such a change in the processing tax appropriation of $100,000,000 in the farm act to get its operations under way. He said money was being raised by the cotton act for farmers retiring land from the production of cotton.

Wallace and George N. Peak, chief administrator, and J. O. Shepherd, of Evansville, Ind., a retired packer, to administer processing and trade agreement activities for packing house products, principally hog products.

Earle Smith, of Chicago, president of the Illinois Agricultural Association, composed of farm bureau units in the state, has been offered the post of hog and sheep administrator, and is expected to accept.

The administrative setup now contemplates two chiefs for each commodity, each with a distinct field. One will be in charge of production problems for each of the basic commodities listed in the bill and will direct relations with farmers in efforts to cut down production.

M. W. Wilson, a Montana State College professor, will carry on this activity for wheat, Cobb for cotton, and Smith for corn and hogs. Others will be named for tobacco, dairy products, and rice.

Occupants of companion posts, the first of which was filled with the selection of Shepherd, will devote their attention to the relations of the cotton and especially to the field of trade agreements aimed to cut down competitive factors in flour milling, meat packing, oil processing, and processing and distributing of other commodities.

Smith wants action.

Senator Smith, explaining that he "craved action," was accompanied on his visit to Wallace's office by Senators Black and Bankhead, of Alabama; Byrnes, of South Carolina, and Stephens, of Mississippi. Smith said he regretted cotton acreage reduction this year "an absolute necessity."

Smith estimated that land now planted to cotton could be taken out of production at the rate of about $10 an acre either by leasing or through application of the voluntary domestic allotment plan.

Supplementing the bounty, he proposed that a cotton option plan be inserted in the farm act at its instance be employed. Under it about 2,500,000 bales of cotton on which the government would make loans would be available for options.

The grower agreeing to retire acreage would be given an option on the government's cotton, at a rate estimated production of the cotton crop from cropping. The farmer would pay nothing for this option except the agreement to retire acreage. It would be granted the grower at a market price. He could order it sold at any time up to next January 1.

If the cotton increased in price as a result of reduction of acreage and probable supply he would be paid the amount of the increase as an additional reward for acreage reduction.

"This is the practical way for farm relief right now," Smith said. "Cotton already is up and if some is plowed under it is too late for other farmers to plant more so that there cannot be a production increase by some farmer who might want to take advantage of his neighbor. It will avoid use of the processing tax which I fought in the farm bill."

COBB IS NOTED STUDENT OF COTTON MAN'S PROBLEMS

OF THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Cotton production is the federal farm adjustment act, the federal direction of C. A. Cobb, editor of southern agricultural periodicals, who has given agriculture the life of a study of farm problems.

Advices from Washington Monday said Secretary Wallace and George H. Peak, chief administrator of the adjustment act, will name the Atlanta publicist to administer an important phase of President Roosevelt's farm relief program.

Of all American agricultural crops, Mr. Cobb knows more about cotton, perhaps than any other. He was born and reared in the cotton country of Prospect, Tenn. He was educated in a state that is one of the world's chief cotton producers—Mississippi; he was engaged in cotton growing and work in that state for many years and since 1919 he has been editor and director of Southern Ruralist.

On September 1, 1930, when publication was merged with the Progressive Farmer and Mr. Cobb assumed the title of vice president and editor. Recently he was assigned to Birmingham, Ala., to have direction of the Georgia and Alabama editions of the Progressive Farmer.

Southern agriculturists know him as a man with distinctive ideas about advancing the cause of the farmer by the application of modern methods born of scientific research.

Destiny was the result of the traditions of agrarian life as practiced in the south came early in Mr. Cobb's life. While serving as state agent in Mississippi, agriculture and mechanical college, in charge of boys' agricultural club work, he organized the first agricultural high school in that state.

But not the same time he was judging contest that has spread among farm college students throughout Dixie.

From 1923 to 1928 Mr. Cobb was president of the American Agricultural Editors' Association. While in that office he conceived a plan of conducting national and international study farm systems and problems in many lands at first hand.

The first tour was made in 1924 and covered England, Ireland, Denmark, Germany, Switzerland and France. In each of those countries the editors were guests of the government and farm co-operatives.

33 Persons Rescued From Salt Lake Island

OGDEN, Utah, May 22.—(P)—Thirty-three persons were rescued this afternoon after experiencing all the hardships and thrills of "marooned mariners" in the Great Salt Lake.

The party, including five women, was taken off Bird Island in a launch when the wind abated. High waves prevented operation of small craft which took the excursionists to the island Sunday.

They spent the night without shelter. A rainstorm added to their discomfort. Flour, blankets and fresh water were dropped to them today from an airplane, which successfully negotiated the "Pelican hazard."

Flying low over the island involved some risk of hitting one of these large birds, great numbers having their nesting grounds there.

MAN'S BODY FOUND ON LAGRANGE TRACKS

LAGRANGE, Ga., May 22.—The body of a man, too badly mutilated for immediate identification, was found here early this morning on a railroad crossing, by passers-by.

The police who were called as soon as the body was discovered, began investigation with the result that the body was practically identified as James Henry Brooks, a textile worker.

Mr. Brooks who was married and the father of a small child left home Sunday, presumably for a walk, and has not been seen since.

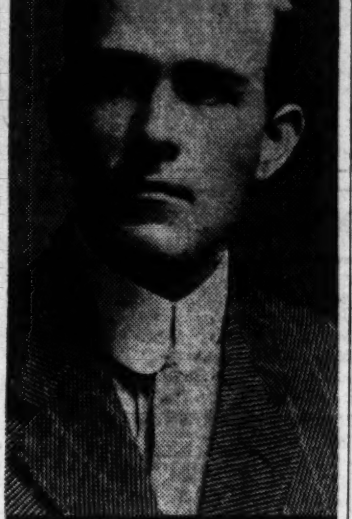

A coroner's inquest was called but was adjourned pending further investigation in the case in which it is reported foul play is suspected.

140,000 Benefited By 2 New La. Banks

NEW ORLEANS, May 22.—(P)—Doors of two new national banks swung open today and approximately 140,000 depositors benefited by the release of a good percentage of funds which had been "frozen" when the two predecessor institutions—state banks—went on a restricted basis during the national banking holiday last March. The two new banks released approximately $32,000,000 from the frozen accounts.

The Hibernia National bank, formerly the Hibernia Bank & Trust Co., released $14,000,000 representing 43 per cent of the frozen balances, and the National Bank of Commerce, formerly the Canal Bank & Trust Co., released 30 per cent or approximately $18,000,000. Both old institutions had been operating on a 5 per cent restricted basis since the banking holidays.

The releases today were in addition to a previous 5 per cent made available by both banks, and it was announced that other payments would be made to depositors as liquidation of the old institutions progresses.

The Commerce bank reported assets of $20,800,565.66 and deposits at $17,600,565.66; the Hibernia $17,165,583.59 in assets and $14,165,583.59 in deposits.

FUNDS ALLOTTED FOR STATE RELIEF

Georgia Is One of First Eight to Get Aid for Destitute Persons.

$40,622 ALLOTTED FOR GEORGIA'S USE

Governor Talmadge received notice from Washington Monday that the Reconstruction Finance Corporation has approved a loan of $40,622 to Georgia for relief purposes during the last two weeks of this month.

Herman De La Perriere said the proceeds of the loan would be divided among 31 political subdivisions.

WASHINGTON, May 22.—(P)—The relief policy of the Roosevelt administration was outlined today as opposed to maintaining millions on destitution relief rolls as determined to prevent starvation.

Harry L. Hopkins made the statement of policy after entering upon his duties as administrator of the $500,000,000 of federal funds to be given the states for relief purposes in the next two years.

The first act of Hopkins, who was drafted by the president from the New York state relief administration, was to telegraph the governors of the eight states to make immediate application to the new administration for money needed from May 19 to May 30.

He informed the governors that funds would be immediately available when they applied, giving figures of expenditures of public money from all sources for relief during the last quarter.

The money is to be granted on the basis of one federal dollar for every three dollars of public money from all sources spent by the states during that period.

The allotments made were: Colorado, $302,645; Georgia, $40,622; Illinois, $2,500,000; Iowa, $47,207; Michigan, $1,630,540; Mississippi, $164,193; Ohio, $39,245, and Texas, $611,865.

Small Shoals Dam Halted by Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, May 22.—(P)—By order of the White House, work has been halted on the construction of a dam at the government Muscle Shoals property for which the Hoover administration contracted in its closing days.

Action was taken on the basis of reports received from Louis Glavis, chief of the interior department's investigation bureau, who made a personal survey of the Alabama project for the administration.

The dam involved was intended to supplement the power potentialities of the huge Wilson dam. Construction of such a dam, to be known as dam No. 3, is authorized in the new Muscle Shoals law.

Glavis reported that the work being done was on a dam many feet lower than specifications providing the maximum of benefit. He advised his chief, Secretary Ickes, that contractors were nearly ready to pour cement in the lower dam and that its completion on the smaller scale would hamper the fullest development of the Shoals project.

Ickes took the matter up with the president and Mr. Roosevelt ordered the army engineers to halt work on the dam immediately.

May I Talk... TO YOUR WIFE?

THIS week I want to talk to the good wives and mothers of the city on a matter of great importance to them and their children.

Has your husband made a will? If not, it is vital to you and the children that you urge him to do so. Every wife should know that if her husband dies without making a will, she will be involved in cold mechanical operation of the law, which will take no account of the circumstances and conditions of the family. It may even result in a settlement of the estate entirely different from what she and her husband intended.

Making a will is not a death-bed measure. You and your husband should weigh the future calmly and carefully. He is working hard to build financial security for you and your children, if you have any. He is carrying insurance against an untimely death. That is fine, but he must go still further. He must help to guard you against unwise investment, insure the preservation of that estate so that you may secure the greatest benefit from it, free you from problems of management, give you the benefit of a type of experience which you as a wife, mother and home builder, could not be expected to have.

The answer to all this is a will, naming the Trust Department of your bank as the executor and trustee, or co-executor and co-trustee with you.

Talk to your husband tonight and suggest that he come into the bank and get some information, or write to me and the information will be sent to you.

INSTALLMENT XXXII.

"You won't mind if I ask you some questions, will you?" Stone said, with a trace of hesitation. "I know you want to know the truth, whatever it may be."

"Why, I do know it," said Mrs. Coles, in evident astonishment. "I know my boy is dead. What more is there to know?"

"You're satisfied that his was a natural death?"

"Oh, yes. What else could it be? Surely nobody would want to kill my boy! That would be too absurd. Why should anyone do that, Mr. Stone?"

"I don't say anyone did, but we detectives have to look at things from all sides, you know."

"Well," said Mrs. Coles, "if you want to question me, go right ahead. But please don't say my Bobby was killed. I can stand the loss of my boy, my dear one, but I couldn't stand it to think he was killed!"

"Fleming Stone was often up against this sort of thing, especially with mothers. He knew better than to insist. He must hint and suggest, not declare."

"Of course," he said, in agreement. "He was generally well, though, wasn't he?"

"Oh, yes, that. But the doctor told me that heart disease is unusually prevalent just now, and a strong man may be stricken down most unexpectedly."

"And quite right, too. One sees such things in the paper every day. But that poor Mr. Malden—it is assumed by the doctors that he did not die a natural death."

"So I've heard. But he was so much older."

"Stone wondered how that made his taking off more likely, but he only said, 'He was a friend of Bob's, wasn't he?'"

"No. I think they never met until the wedding party took place. But Bob liked him immensely. He liked all the crowd. You see, Bobby was a friend of Malcolm, and Mr. Corey was a much older man. Bob liked that Mr. Gaskell. And Mr. Garth, too. Oh, they were a nice lot; he told me all about them. He was there overnight, you know, a sort of house party."

"A gay time, I daresay."

"Not so much that, for they all had colds and took aspirin or something. No, not aspirin, a prescription of some sort. I think it upset Bob; he never takes nostrums. But the wedding was lovely. I wasn't well enough to go; I'm rather an invalid. But Bob told me all about it."

"As you're his mother, you wouldn't mind his question. Was Bob in love with Mrs. Malden?"

"She looked at him out of one eye, like a bird. Then she nodded her head. 'Yes,' she said, 'he was. But nobody could help loving that girl. She's such a darling.'"

"And after Corey died, he hoped maybe she might turn to him."

"Yes, Mr. Stone, he did. How you understand. And do you know, I think it might have come about that way, if Bob had lived. She must have learned to love him, I'm sure. He's such a dear boy. Oh, they all were in love with her. Why Roger Garth, he fell in love at first sight. But she only cared for Corey, which was all right of course. I like a one-man girl. Still, if Bob had lived, I do believe he could have made her happy."

"I've no doubt of it. You know, Mrs. Coles, I knew our Bob pretty well. He was learning every day. He had a real talent for detective work."

"Stone divined that Mr. Coles loved to talk about her son, so he stayed a bit longer to cheer her all he could, and then under plea of being a busy man he took his leave."

Reaching home again, Stone found Tony Gaskell there, awaiting him. The two had become friendly, even intimate in their many confabulations as to Perilla's affairs. Stone had learned that although Tony was deeply in love with the young widow, he had no intention of telling her so at present. Gaskell looked a bit preoccupied. Stone thought, but he stated his errand at once.

"Can you put me up for the night, old chap?" he said. "I know I've trespassed a lot on your hospitality of late, but I'm an early appointment to-morrow morning, and a late one to-night."

"Of course, Gaskell. I'm pretty busy myself, so we won't bother each other. Just make yourself at home."

"Thank you, I'll start in by telephoning."

"All right. And as I'm running off again, at once, we'll meet at dinner. I'll be in here at five, if you're in, but we can have a confab this evening."

Stone looked over some papers while Tony dialed his call, but left the house before Gaskell could answer.

He jumped into his waiting car and gave the chauffeur an address. It proved to be that of a tourist agency, and Stone hastened inside. Looking at various clerks who were answering telephone calls, he saw one of them give him a slight nod. Stone went over to him, and set down till he should be through with his customer.

"Him?" said the detective, ungrammatically but eagerly.

"Yes, sir. Reservations for Bermuda, day after tomorrow."

"Good. Make me a note of the steamer and time of sailing. You're a first-class worker, Henty. You'll get your reward some day."

From there Stone went to the home of the district attorney. He knew Morris was not in the office that day, and hoped to catch him at his house.

"Any news from the seat of war?" Stone asked, as he shook hands with his host.

"No real news. Have you any?"

The district attorney looked anxious. "No, except that no news is always good news."

"That's the proverb, yes. In real life, not so surely."

"Well, you" hold off a couple of days longer, won't you?" Stone's voice was almost cajoling, and his smile was irresistible.

"If I can. You know, Mr. Stone, I can't have a murder accusation brought to me and take no notice of it whatever."

"But if it's a trumped up accusation—"

"I can't prove that. If Farman comes here and says Mrs. Malden poisoned her husband, I've got to listen."

"Yes, but let it go at listening. Tell him, you'll take up the matter next week. Listen to me a few moments, Morris."

The district attorney did listen, and at last was really impressed by what he heard.

"I didn't mean to tell you quite so much," the detective stated, "but this latest development makes action imperative at once, and I can't act if you and Farman are hobnobbing about Mrs. Malden."

"I see that, of course, but I can promise nothing. If Farman comes in, I'll do the best I can to meet your wishes. That's all I can do for a bit."

"Pray heaven, he holds off a bit," said Stone, earnestly, for that holding off might mean life or death to somebody.

"What comments would be made on my actions if I paid no attention to death that occurred with only one person in the room beside the victim?"

"If he was a victim?"

"Oh, well, it will probably drift along all right. And I promise you I'll do the very best I can in your interest and young Mrs. Malden's."

"What you want to do is to realize that it will be best for your own interest to keep yourself pure and unspotted from the world. You recognize Farman's slanders, and you'll see where you'll bring up! Remember, Mr. Morris, I shall have my defense all ready by day after tomorrow, and that will be too late for any mistakes you may have made tomorrow. Such errors as unjust murder accusations cannot be wiped off a slate with a sponge. I have everything ready; I'm waiting only for signed proofs, which will be duly forthcoming. Of course, your accusations would in no way harm Mrs. Malden or her cause, but it would give her unhappy moments, as you can readily see for yourself. You think it over from a personal point of view, and see how it looks to you then. I'll see you tomorrow, if possible, if not, then I'll trust to your common sense and better judgment."

Stone left the district attorney in an uncertain mood, but Morris was slowly and surely coming round to the detective's view of the matter.

When Farman came on his momentous errand, District Attorney Morris greeted him with little enthusiasm.

Atlantans Are Quick To Respond To Traffic League Safety Drive

ATLANTA'S TRAFFIC ACCIDENT RECORD.

Monday (to 4 p. m.)	Traffic	Injuries	Deaths
May 14 to 15	148	94	3
1932 to date	148	94	3
1932 same period	148	94	3

Compiled by Atlanta Traffic and Safety League and Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Atlanta is safety-minded and anxious to improve traffic conditions. The number of windshield insignias and lapel buttons, attesting membership in the Atlanta Traffic and Safety League that are putting in an appearance evidence that fact. The Atlanta Pan-Hellenic Association, under the leadership of its president, Mrs. Charles D. Laughlin, is canvassing downtown office buildings this week to obtain individual memberships in the league, proceeds to go in their entirety to the educational work planned to improve traffic rule observance and to cut down the number of accidents in the city.

Duncan G. Peek, president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, which is jointly sponsoring the traffic safety campaign, said Monday that a large number of Junior Chamber workers today would swell the number of membership solicitors in the field.

That traffic authorities have more trouble with "weavers" than with any other single class of offenders, excepting speeders, is the opinion of Captain Jack Malcom, whose activities in traffic enforcement have been extensive.

"The weaver is the driver who will not stay in line no matter what may be the conditions," Malcom explained. W. G. Hastings, chairman of the traffic committee of city council, adds a warning to those drivers who try to beat the red light.

Trial of Harriman Postponed for Week

NEW YORK, May 22.—(P)—Trial of Joseph W. Harriman, former chairman of the Harriman National Bank & Trust Company, who is charged with falsifying the accounts of the bank, was postponed for a week to allow Harriman himself lay in a Nassau county hospital recovering from a self-inflicted wound.

Although postponing the trial only one week Judge Henry Goddard said the case was subject to further postponement as it is intended to have it follow the income tax hearing of Charles E. Mitchell, former head of the National City Bank, which is now in progress.

Harriman stabbed himself Saturday after being found by police in a Long Island hotel after having been missing for a day.

FIRE INSURANCE GENERAL AGENTS IN MEETING HERE

The eighth annual convention of the American Association of Insurance General Agents, comprising about 90 per cent of the fire agents of the country, met at the Biltmore hotel on Monday for a two-day session.

The delegates were welcomed by Lewis A. Irons, representing the Georgia insurance commissioner. An address was delivered by Langdon C. Quinn, president of the association.

Charles L. Gandy, of Birmingham, president of the National Association of Insurance Agents, made a talk, as did J. H. Hines, of Atlanta, president of the Southeastern Underwriters' Association.

Monday night the delegates attended a dinner and dance at the Capital City Club. Shepard Bryan spoke at the dinner. Luncheons were held at the Capital City and Piedmont Driving Clubs, the latter for ladies visiting the convention.

Today will be devoted to reports of committees and election of officers. James Cravens, of Atlanta, will make an address. About 75 delegates are in attendance.

SECRETARY HULL HOLDS CONFERENCE WITH MRS. JACOBS

WASHINGTON, May 22.—Secretary of State Cordell Hull today held a lengthy conference with Mrs. Sinclair Jacobs, of Atlanta, and other representatives of the Woman's International League for Peace and Freedom, which last week presented a petition to President Roosevelt asking for further drastic cuts in military and naval costs.

The state department head personally read to Mrs. Jacobs and her associates the address before the Geneva disarmament conference by Norman H. Davis, ambassador at large of the Roosevelt administration abroad. While at the department the Atlanta woman also conferred with J. Moffatt, chief of the disarmament division and former American charge d'affaires at Geneva.

Mrs. Jacobs expressed gratification over the leadership President Roosevelt has taken in world disarmament, as contained in his recent message to world rulers, and declared that the United States should continue its steps forward in this direction.

As "disarmament messenger" for the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom, Mrs. Jacobs circulated a petition throughout eight states of the south asking for disarmament.

LAKE ACCIDENT VICTIM WILL BE BURIED TODAY

Hill. The Rev. L. E. Smith will officiate. Interment will be in Greenwood cemetery, with H. M. Patterson & Son in charge.

Cartin and five companions were in the boat when it sank. The others were rescued by Bill McConnell, a member of the party, who was swimming alongside the boat, and by spectators. Cartin was under water for 20 minutes before his body was recovered, and an inhalator was used for more than an hour in an effort to revive him.

1 Child Killed, 2 Hurt As Boy Falls With Gun

SILVER SPRING, Ark., May 22.—(P)—One child was killed and four other children were injured, two seriously, yesterday by the accidental discharge of a shotgun 12-year-old Dale Kinsey was carrying from his house into the yard to play "squirrel hunting."

Young Kinsey stumbled and fell as he reached the front door. The gun discharged and killed his sister, Helen, 10, and seriously injured Ruby Harris, 16, and her one-year-old brother whom she was holding. The other two children were not injured seriously, receiving only scattered shot cuts about the legs and arms.

WILLIAM C. SLATE DIES AT HOSPITAL

Well-Known Atlantan Was Veteran Member of Board of Education.

William C. Slate, 44, of 631 Central avenue, former vice president of the Atlanta board of education and oldest member of the board in point of service, died Monday morning at Battle Hill sanitarium. Mr. Slate, who was assistant chief clerk of the Atlanta freight department for 25 years, went to the hospital 10 days ago.

Funeral services will be held at 4 o'clock this afternoon at Spring Hill. The Rev. Laurence A. Davis will officiate. Interment will be in West View cemetery. Mr. Slate's five brothers and a brother-in-law, W. H. Garvin, will serve as pallbearers.

Mr. Slate was a leading figure in second ward political and civic circles for years. He was runner-up in the last election for the post of alderman from the second ward, being defeated by a narrow margin. His service on the board of education included the chairmanship of the building and grounds committee several years ago.

He played a prominent part in administration of the 1928 school bond issue of $5,500,000 and obtained a reputation as the "watch dog" of the school department treasury, always battling for economy in school operation.

Mr. Slate was born in Rockmart, Ga. He attended Atlanta public schools and was graduated from Boys' High in 1907. His father, William A. Slate, a conductor with the Southern, has been with the railroad for 35 years. Mr. Slate was a member of Fulton lodge of Masons, Valley Scottish Rite consistory and Yarnab temple.

In addition to his wife, Mr. Slate is survived by his parents; six daughters, Mrs. W. L. McGill, Mrs. W. C. Lee, Mrs. J. P. Upshaw, Mrs. J. W. Anderson and Miss Vivian and Miss Margaret Slate; four sons, W. C. Jr., Charles A., James P. and Richard R. Slate; five brothers, W. Owen, W. George, J. Tom, Charles E. and Francis Slate; three sisters, Mrs. W. H. Garvin and Mrs. J. H. Bauknight, of Atlanta, and Mrs. J. W. Haley, of Harlem, Ga., and a grandchild, W. C. Lee Jr.

Members of the board of education, the executive staff and principals of the schools will serve as an honorary escort.

BLACK BILL APPROVED BY GOODYEAR'S HEAD

Approval of the Black bill, which is pending in congress and has for its purpose the improvement of employment conditions, was expressed by P. W. Litchfield, president of the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., in a speech recently before the United States Chamber of Commerce.

Admitting that such legislation as the anti-trust act has been a deterrent to the efforts of business to do away with cut-throat competition and resulting unemployment, Mr. Litchfield discussed present policies of the Roosevelt administration. He said in part:

"There is a widespread belief that our present federal government is entitled to be trusted in the administration of new and dangerous policies—the dangers are recognized but it is also thought by many that common sense and flexible authority may avoid these dangers. We are sailing uncharted seas. Let it be our purpose to avoid confusion of methods designed to meet a temporary emergency with plans and methods for permanent improvement. Let us not confuse expedients with unalterable regulations. What government does at this time should be done with the thought in mind that a change is coming, that what helps today may injure in the near future."

The Creator's first gift to a new world will be the language of the World's Fair to be held from June 1st to November 1st, in Chicago. Plan now to see this great Exposition and stay at the Morrison. Special bus to and from the Fair.

Last Obstacle Removed For Trial of Mooney

SAN FRANCISCO, May 22.—(UP)—The last legal obstacle to the trial of Tom Mooney, asserted Preparedness Day bomber, was removed today when the state supreme court denied an application for a writ of mandate which would have compelled Superior Judge Louis H. Ward to dismiss an old murder indictment against Mooney.

As a result of the high court's refusal, Mooney's trial was expected to start at 10 a.m. tomorrow with the defense hoping the state would present enough evidence to give Mooney witnesses a chance to refute it.

Spanish Crime Wave Brings General Strike

SEVILLE, Spain, May 22.—(AP)—Police used gunfire today to break up a demonstration against Interior Minister Quiroga Casares, who was marching in the funeral procession of a prominent manufacturer who was assassinated Saturday because he took the lead in a movement to stop the crime wave in this section.

In protest against alleged government apathy toward the crime wave a general strike was declared, but complete cessation of commercial activities did not result.

More than 10,000 persons attended the funeral of the assassinated manufacturer, Pedro Caravaca. Minister Casares walked behind the coffin with Mayor Jose Lavandera.

The crowd yelled: "Out with the minister," but he and the mayor kept their places in line, followed by representatives of the family. One group of demonstrators grew menacing, and the police opened fire.

MRS. JELKE RAPS INFIDELITY CHARGE

New York Bachelor Takes Stand to Deny Accusations in Divorce Suit.

NEWPORT, R. I., May 22.—(AP)—Eugenia Woodward Jelke, former society belle of Alabama, will take the stand in superior court tomorrow, both to reply to charges made against her by her husband, F. Frazier Jelke, of Newport and New York, in his suit for divorce, and to adduce evidence on behalf of her own cross-petition for divorce.

In the trial before Judge Charles A. Walsh today she struck a blow, through her attorneys, at her husband's charge that she had been seen in the company of a New York bachelor, testified he dined with Mrs. Jelke the evening of August 2, left her at her hotel and made arrangements to meet her the next day, when she went to his apartment house in New York, and awaited him downstairs in a lounge until he joined her and drove her away in his roadster.

George Baldwin, of Newark, N. J., a New York paper salesman and friend of Mr. White's, testified that on the night of August 2, after a bridge game he went to White's apartment and slept there. There was no one else in the apartment but himself and Mr. White, he said.

A deposition taken in Paris, made by Jeanne La Coste, maid who served Mrs. Jelke during her trip to Europe, she told the maid had been in the room when Mr. Jelke threw her to the floor. When Mrs. Jelke related this to Mrs. La Coste, Mr. Jelke was in an adjoining room and could hear what was said, but made no protest, the maid testified.

Mrs. Jelke suffered a bump on her head while in London, Mrs. La Coste testified, but testimony as to whether Mrs. Jelke told her about the bump was not allowed.

The maid said Mrs. Jelke always was amiable with her husband, but was constantly in tears because of his treatment.

A deposition by Carlos Mayer, of Paris, taken recently in New York, was read. Mayer said he knew the couple in Paris and that on the night of the Beaux Arts ball he had invited them to lunch the next day. Mrs. Jelke had said, the witness testified, that he would be "delighted" to accept but his wife probably would not appear because she was going to the ball that night and would be too tired.

However, Mr. Mayer said, the next day Mrs. Jelke appeared, but Mrs. Jelke did not. After the ball, he took Mrs. Jelke back to her hotel, and there Mr. Jelke launched into such a tirade of abuse at her that he, Mr. Mayer, protested against a man using such language to his wife.

Text of Address by Davis Outlining U. S. Arms Policy

WASHINGTON, May 22.—(AP)—The text of the speech delivered today before the Geneva disarmament conference by Norman H. Davis, chief delegate of the United States, follows:

The initiative taken by the president of the United States in communicating directly with the heads of the states participating in the economic and disarmament conferences was prompted by the pressing need for concerted and decisive action to solve the inter-related problems with which these two conferences must deal.

The disarmament conference has reached the moment for definite decisions. We must face the issue: we must now determine whether the nations of the world propose to go forward with progressive disarmament, or to revert to the pre-war system of unrestrained competition in armaments with all the continuance of the international suspicion and fear which this will involve.

Change Resolved On. At the end of the World War the peoples of all states and their leaders resolved that the suicidal armament policy of the preceding decades must be changed.

They were convinced that this policy had been one of the contributing factors which brought about the war. Hence a new policy regarding armaments was incorporated as a fundamental part of the peace settlement. This policy, adopted to prevent a future race in armaments, was based on the principle that armaments are a matter of general concern and that the time had passed when each state should be the sole judge of its armaments.

To carry out this conception provision was made for the disarmament of the defeated powers and at the same time a decision was taken to proceed in such a way as to bring the victorious states voluntarily assumed an obligation to reduce their own armaments.

German Arms Cut. As a first step the peace treaties reduced the armaments of Germany and her allies with a view to rendering impossible any aggression on their part. In fact the treaty behind these treaties was that the victors could not disarm the powers should be fixed on the basis of the maintenance of the internal order and the necessary policing of frontiers, but no more.

The whole purpose of these provisions was to guarantee that the armies of Germany and her former allies should be reduced to a level which would not be a threat to the peace. It would neither have been just nor wise, nor was it intended, that the central powers should be subject for all time to a special treaty of disarmament. There is and has been a corresponding duty on the part of the other powers, parties to peace treaties, that by successive stages they should bring their armaments down to a level strictly determined by the needs of self-defense.

While the United States is not bound by the provisions of the peace treaties, the implications of those treaties, I have no hesitancy in saying that it is the will of our people, interpreted by President Roosevelt, to join with the other powers in disarming down to that level, and we are prepared to exert our influence to bring this about, not by theoretical statements of policy, but by decisions and progressive reductions of armaments through international agreement.

Delay Out of Question. The present situation admits of no further delay. The states of the world must either go forward in good faith to carry out in all its implications the disarmament policy which was adopted in 1919 or we must recognize frankly that this policy has been abandoned and reconcile ourselves to reverting to a race in competitive armament.

If the latter course is taken the consequences are inevitable. Sooner or later there will be the breakdown of the peace machinery which has been so laboriously built up since 1918 and the world will be swept into another war.

The immediate result of a failure here would be a setback to such mutual confidence between nations as will permit a real collaboration in the task of restoring international trade and the freer movement of goods.

This is impossible in a situation clouded by the fear of war. National budgets which should be devoted to productive and social ends are being drained by the military expenditures for armament. This leads in turn to an almost unbearable load of taxation on all our peoples.

If we thus candidly admit the situation there is really a clear alternative for a sane world to consider. It is inconceivable that the responsible leaders of any country in the world could hesitate over this issue. We cannot shirk the duty which this choice imposes upon us. We cannot safely delay taking effective steps to reduce armaments to a purely defensive basis.

Simpler Program. As far as the position of the United States is concerned we are frank to recognize that we have a simpler problem to meet than have many of the European powers. Fears and apprehensions based on historical and racial grounds have led to the maintenance of large armaments in Europe. These large armaments have caused resentment, particularly in the least-armed countries. The resulting political tension has in turn reacted to keep up the general level of armaments.

We are not unaware of the difficulties which lie in the way of reducing armaments here. It is our very detachment from this situation which gives us hope that we may exert a helpful influence toward the realization of our common objective. But we are prepared to aid in other ways, and I shall take this opportunity to show what we are prepared to do.

As regards the level of armaments we are prepared to go as far as the other states in the way of reduction. We feel that the ultimate objective should be to reduce armaments approximately to the level established by the peace treaties, that is to bring armaments as soon as possible through successive stages down to the basis of a domestic police force.

To Abolish Weapons. In particular, as emphasized by President Roosevelt, we are prepared to join other nations in abolishing weapons of an aggressive character which not only are the more costly to construct and maintain but at present are those most likely to lead to a breach of the peace.

To cut the power of offense and remove the threat of surprise attack would do more than anything else to lessen the danger of war.

Almost a year ago the American government submitted a proposal along these lines. This proposal, which received the approval of a large number of states, was not acceptable to certain states and was therefore not adopted.

A few weeks ago the British prime minister submitted a similar proposal which embodies many of the features of the American plan of last year. As the British proposal represents a real measure of disarmament we accept it wholeheartedly as a definite and excellent step toward the ultimate objective. We therefore are prepared to give our full support to its adoption at this conference.

In addition I wish to make clear that we are ready not only to do that toward the substantive reduction of armaments but if this is effected by general international agreement, we are also prepared to contribute in other ways to the organization of peace.

Will be to Consult. In particular we are willing to consult the other states in case of a threat to peace with a view to averting conflict.

Further than that, in the event that the states, in conference, determine that a state has been guilty of a breach of the peace in violating its international obligations and take measures against the violator, then, if we concur in the judgment rendered as to the responsible and guilty party, we are prepared to assist in the enforcement of that judgment by contributing to the cost of the measures taken.

Measures Formulated. The disarmament conference has already formulated measures for the establishing of a permanent disarmament commission. The powers now proposed for this commission will be well reinforced. The commission will have many important duties but none more essential than that of effectively supervising the fulfillment of the treaty.

We recognize that the ultimate objective in disarmament must be attained by stages but we believe that the time has come when we must move forward and cannot be further postponed.

DAVIS PLEDGES U. S. AID TO PEACE

Envoy Tells Geneva Conference That America Will Co-operate.

some assurance against attack in return for sacrificing armaments.

President Roosevelt, whose message to 54 nations last week began the concerted drive toward non-aggression, busied himself with the bill to authorize scaling down armaments through agreement with other nations at the London economic conference next month.

The agreement between the four great powers of western Europe—Great Britain, France, Germany and Italy—to collaborate in maintaining European peace for 10 years was regarded in Washington as a great assistance toward reducing armaments and regaining economic stability.

Views Explained. While the pact as proposed by Premier Benito Mussolini, of Italy, was before the four nations for formal signature, an explanation of Italy's views on the matter was made by Fulvio Suvich, undersecretary of foreign affairs, before the chamber of deputies.

Suvich declared the four powers were "responsible for peace or war in Europe and the world." Announcing he had been asked to speak by Suvich, Davis said tribute to Roosevelt's peace speech and to Chancellor Hitler's reply for Germany. He promised Italy would support at the London conference "all initiatives which will effect the economic recovery of the world."

Ambassador Rosso, of Italy, and German Ambassador Hans Luther conferred with President Roosevelt, who conferred with the four-power pact. Chancellor Hitler declared in Berlin that Germany desired peace "probably more intensely than other nations because it is the only one that has not been the victim of aggression, but the victim of misfortune."

The governments at Paris and London praised Mussolini's proposal.

U. S. PLEDGES NEW ROLE IN WORLD PEACE MOVES

GENEVA, May 22.—(AP)—The United States government today pledged itself never to interfere with international action to deal with a menace of war, once the aggressor nation has been identified.

This far-reaching policy was announced by Norman H. Davis, President Roosevelt's representative, at the international disarmament conference. It was immediately interpreted as meaning that in the future the League of Nations could boycott, blockade and otherwise punish nations which refused to accept the new policy.

Mr. Davis also committed the American government to participate in "effective measures for the maintenance of international supervision designed to make certain that the nations carry out their promises in disarmament."

Will Exert Power. "President Roosevelt's message," he said, "is a clear indication of the fact that the United States will exert its full power and influence and accept its just share of responsibility to make the new policy in disarmament definite, prompt and effective."

His speech, greeted by the cheers of the delegates of 50 nations, was accepted by European commentators as a new policy in disarmament, the traditional American policy of isolation and neutrality.

Concretely, the American doctrine was interpreted to mean that the British navy would be free to move to help the League of Nations keep the peace because it will be in no danger of coming to grips with the American navy.

After announcing that the United States was willing to consult with the other states in case of a threat to peace, Mr. Davis set forth the American policy in the following words:

"Further than that, in the event that the states, in conference, determine that a state has been guilty of a breach of the peace in violation of its international obligations and take measures against the violator, then, if we concur in the judgment rendered as to the responsible and guilty party, we will refrain from any action tending to defeat such collective effort."

Must Be Results. As far as the United States is concerned our abilities and our incentive to collaborate wholeheartedly in the continuing task of keeping to the maintenance of world peace depends in large measure upon the results achieved here in disarmament.

President Roosevelt's message is a clear indication of the fact that the United States will exert its full power and influence and accept its just share of responsibility to make the results in disarmament definite, prompt and effective.

The results of success here and now would bring benefits beyond all calculation. It would give new confidence and hope—confidence that governments can still govern and leaders lead; hope that a definite step in disarmament having at last been taken, economic recovery will be hastened and the millions in our country who are only asking for the opportunity to work will have restored to them the possibility of living in peace and of earning their daily bread.

If by great act of faith each and every nation will now summon the courage to take a decisive step in general disarmament, conditions throughout the world will improve that we can henceforth face the future with a real feeling of security and confidence.

With the alternative to success in mind, we cannot allow ourselves to fail.

which these states may thus make to restore peace."

Thus the only condition is that the United States agree with the other nations as to which is the guilty country.

Limits Liberty. In other words, according to the interpretation accepted in Geneva, America not only puts a curb on her neutrality rights but voluntarily limits her liberty on the sea.

"Although America would consult with the other nations she presumably would not vote in determining an aggressor. But leaders said tonight that Europe or the League was not likely to specify any nation as an aggressor unless it was believed that America would concur."

Mr. Davis told the conference that either something must be accomplished in disarmament or the nations must become reconciled to reverting to a race in arms.

"If the latter course is taken," he said, "the consequences are inevitable. Sooner or later there will be the breakdown of the peace machinery which has been so laboriously built up since 1918 and the world will be swept into another war."

He proposed drastic arms reductions, saying that the United States was prepared "to go as far as the other states."

He felt that the ultimate objective should be to reduce armaments approximately to the level established by the peace treaties, that is to bring armaments as soon as possible through successive stages down to the basis of a domestic police force.

To Abolish Weapons. In particular, as emphasized by President Roosevelt, we are prepared to join other nations in abolishing weapons of an aggressive character which are not only the more costly to construct and maintain but at present are those most likely to lead to a breach of the peace.

To cut the power of offense and remove the threat of surprise attack would do more than anything else to lessen the danger of a war."

As a result of the Davis speech the disarmament conference took on a distinctly more optimistic aspect. Making good on Chancellor Hitler's promise, Germany virtually agreed to transform the reichswehr into a standardized conscript army, thus removing one of the chief obstacles in the way of disarmament.

Moreover, it was learned from American sources, Germany is disposed to join a European pact of mutual assistance by which any country, if the victim of aggression, could count upon the help of other signatories.

The French gave immense importance to America's readiness to participate in the control of armaments. It was stated that the United States will announce its readiness to consult the nations in the event of a threat to peace by issuing a unilateral declaration of intent.

Thus the United States has given the spur to disarmament, but has frankly warned the world that participation in the machinery of peace will be dependent in large measure on agreement of substantial reduction in armaments.

U. S. WILL REDUCE NAVY IF OTHER POWERS DO

WASHINGTON, May 22.—(AP)—As interpreted today at the state department, the Geneva arms conference address of Norman H. Davis conveys a willingness to cut the United States navy drastically provided other nations make similar cuts in their sea forces.

At the same time, the proviso was carefully emphasized, officials pointing out that the navy of the world exist in relation to one another and that the size of the American fleet depends upon the number of fighting ships maintained by other nations. It was added that the United States is entirely sincere in its offer, expressed in the Davis speech.

Asserting that it was never intended that Germany and the others who fought on the losing side in the World War should be permanently augmented in their armaments, Davis said he had "no hesitancy in saying that it is the will of our people, interpreted by President Roosevelt, to join with the other powers in disarming down to that level (one determined by the needs of self-defense)."

ROOSEVELT ACTS SWIFTLY TO STABILIZE EXCHANGE

WASHINGTON, May 22.—(AP)—President Roosevelt acted swiftly tonight to bring about an early stabilization of exchange rates by taking Geneva arms reduction conference through to a quick and definite conclusion.

President Roosevelt's action was a direct result of the fact that the White House conference in which O. M. W. Sprague, advisor to the Bank of England, participated with officials of the treasury and federal reserve system. An announcement was promised for tomorrow.

The president also took a personal hand in the world arms drive as his administration's declaration of American willingness to consult with other nations to assure peace rang around the world.

No sooner had the new doctrine been uttered at Geneva by the president's spokesman, Norman H. Davis, than the chief executive called to the White House the ambassadors of Italy and Germany.

From Ambassador Augusto Rosso, of Italy, he was believed to have sought full information as to the Mussolini four-power "peace club" for Europe, whose approval by Germany, France, Great Britain and Italy was hailed by officials here as another step toward peace.

To further the president was understood to have expressed his appreciation of Germany's recent conciliatory attitude on arms and his hope that the German government would work for success at Geneva.

Rosso would not say whether war debts were discussed with the president, but he said that the German government would work for success at Geneva.

The declaration of American policy toward cooperating against aggression came just a day before the president greets a delegation of officials from Japan whose troops are threatening the ancient Chinese city of Peiping.

Problems of arms and peace are expected to figure in the White House conversations with the group, headed by former Foreign Minister Kikijiro Ishii, although they were originally planned as economic talks in preparation for the London monetary and economic conference.

PEACE UP TO FOUR POWERS, MUSSOLINI AIDE DECLARES

ROME, May 22.—(AP)—England, Germany, France and Italy were held responsible today by Undersecretary for Foreign Affairs Fulvio Suvich "for peace or war in Europe and the world."

The informal acceptance by these four powers of the League of Nations peace pact, however, does not mean there is "less desire and necessity for collaboration" with the smaller states of Europe in observing peace, Suvich added.

The Mussolini pact provides the best method possible for the revision of the post-war peace treaties, he declared. The pact points out the possibility of revision under Article 16 of the covenant of the League of Nations, which contemplated such action even in the event of peace developed.

Premier Mussolini and many foreign diplomats heard the address by Suvich before a crowded hall of the chamber. Deputies. The chamber rose to its feet and cheered Mussolini when Deputy Casarillo paid a fervent tribute to the Duce's foreign policy. Mussolini, who was standing, smiled and bowed.

DESIRE FOR PEACE STRESSED BY HITLER

KIEL, Germany, May 22.—(AP)—After declaring that Germany's desire for peace probably is stronger than that of other nations "because we need it to get bread for our millions of unemployed comrades," Chancellor Hitler put out to sea at the head of the German fleet today to participate in night maneuvers.

The cruiser Leipzig roared a 19-gun salute as the chancellor went on board the flagship Schleswig-Holstein. From the docks thousands of spectators looked on.

The chancellor, in Kiel to inaugurate a navy week, addressed an audience of officers, sailors and civilians after reviewing sailors and members of civilian boat clubs.

He re-emphasized his "determination to regain for the German people equality and liberty" and asserted that the new Germany represents "no menace to the rest of the world."

U. S. WILL REDUCE NAVY IF OTHER POWERS DO

WASHINGTON, May 22.—(AP)—As interpreted today at the state department, the Geneva arms conference address of Norman H. Davis conveys a willingness to cut the United States navy drastically provided other nations make similar cuts in their sea forces.

At the same time, the proviso was carefully emphasized, officials pointing out that the navy of the world exist in relation to one another and that the size of the American fleet depends upon the number of fighting ships maintained by other nations. It was added that the United States is entirely sincere in its offer, expressed in the Davis speech.

Asserting that it was never intended that Germany and the others who fought on the losing side in the World War should be permanently augmented in their armaments, Davis said he had "no hesitancy in saying that it is the will of our people, interpreted by President Roosevelt, to join with the other powers in disarming down to that level (one determined by the needs of self-defense)."

ROOSEVELT ACTS SWIFTLY TO STABILIZE EXCHANGE

WASHINGTON, May 22.—(AP)—President Roosevelt acted swiftly tonight to bring about an early stabilization of exchange rates by taking Geneva arms reduction conference through to a quick and definite conclusion.

President Roosevelt's action was a direct result of the fact that the White House conference in which O. M. W. Sprague, advisor to the Bank of England, participated with officials of the treasury and federal reserve system. An announcement was promised for tomorrow.

The president also took a personal hand in the world arms drive as his administration's declaration of American willingness to consult with other nations to assure peace rang around the world.

No sooner had the new doctrine been uttered at Geneva by the president's spokesman, Norman H. Davis, than the chief executive called to the White House the ambassadors of Italy and Germany.

From Ambassador Augusto Rosso, of Italy, he was believed to have sought full information as to the Mussolini four-power "peace club" for Europe, whose approval by Germany, France, Great Britain and Italy was hailed by officials here as another step toward peace.

To further the president was understood to have expressed his appreciation of Germany's recent conciliatory attitude on arms and his hope that the German government would work for success at Geneva.

Business Women Plan Educational Division Meeting

The educational division of the Business and Professional Women's Club of Atlanta meets at the home of Miss Jane Van de Vrede and Miss Mamie H. Harrison, 546 Highland avenue, Tuesday evening, May 23, at 8 o'clock. The program will be under the supervision of Miss Kenneth Maner, chairman of the education committee. This education work is in line with the ten-year objective of national federation which aims through scientific fact-finding and study among its members to fit its members to be able to become leaders in thinking and in solving problems that confront the world. In furtherance of this objective, two international study groups will travel in Europe this summer under the auspices of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs.

Mrs. Gelece MacDonald Bowman, of Richmond, Va., president of the national federation, was in Atlanta Tuesday evening for two hours while en route from Tupelo, Miss., to New York. Crackers Lose to Volunteers in Opening Night Game, 5 to 2

Few Players Leap Direct From Campus To Major Leagues

For a long time now we have heard so much of the college man in baseball that it is almost generally believed that the game has become one wherein book learning and its accessories are almost necessary.

A check of the records show that of the 85 major league pitchers who may be assumed to be more or less definitely attached, only 11 are products of college.

Of the lot only four came directly to the major leagues and stayed there without benefit of minor league experience. They are Eppa Rixey, of the Reds, who broke in with the Phillies in 1912 after starting with Virginia; Ted Lyons, who went to the White Sox from Baylor; Tom Zachary, who attended Guilford; and Joe Shaute, who pitched for Juanita.

There are a number of others who had little experience before landing a job with some major league club. But these four are the only ones of the present lot who made a clean jump.

The sandlot or semi-pro pitchers are 71 to 11 for the colleges. So it seems that a sheepskin and a mortarboard hat are not at all prerequisites for a major league baseball success.

In departments other than pitching the non-college player is, of course, greatly in excess of the collegiate brand. And the number of those who jumped immediately to the majors from college ranks is quite small.

Frankie Frisch, who went direct to the Giants from Fordham; Luke Sewell, who came to the Indians direct from Alabama, are two of the outstanding examples.

Luke Appling, the Atlanta boy who played one year with the Crackers and who has stuck with the major league White Sox club since, is really an unusual example. Most of the major league players and pitchers have been in and out several times before finally making the grade.

CLIMAX SUPPLIES UNUSUAL CLIMAX.

Climax Blethen has supplied the unusual climax to an Atlanta release. He joined the Knoxville club Monday and pitched against Chattanooga, allowing six hits and winning easily.

There will be general satisfaction in the fact that the one-time Atlanta pitcher has landed a pitching job in the league. He had toiled for the Crackers across five campaigns and was rather popular.

There will also be some amazement in the usual result. It has become highly axiomatic that all a pitcher has to do to achieve success is to obtain a release from Atlanta. It is to be expected that Blethen, who could not win for Atlanta, will become highly useful and will pin back the ears of the Crackers when they meet his new team.

THE NEWEST GOLF STORY.

It is a rather interesting story which one of the negro employees at Rich's brings back from the recent relay and track carnival held at Tuskegee.

It seems that there were also some golf matches in connection with the athletic week-end. They were won by an alumnus from New Orleans who spent the week-end there. The Rich's employee was telling of the prowess of the winner who consistently drove a 420-yard green, the most distant one on the course.

"How was his approach game?" asked one of his listeners. "He didn't have any," said the Atlantan who had been defeated. "He just drove each green."

In a further statement he said that on a short hole of little more than 100 yards the New Orleans golfer took a putter and whacked the ball to the green.

It is just another story of the rather amazing game which produces amazing stories.

THE BOYS' HIGH TEAM.

Things being what they are, and times being what they are, the Boys' High track team is asking its alumni and the public in general for aid in its program, which includes participation in the national track meet at Chicago in July.

Atlanta probably does not appreciate the two very fine schools of Boys' High and Tech High. They are rival competitors, which probably explains why they are usually superior to others, competition producing superior performers.

Tech High has produced the championship golf team, the best baseball team and the best wrestlers. Boys' High track team has been one of the best for the past several seasons. The team merits the support of all those interested in the furtherance of high school athletics. The visit of these Georgia boys to a track meet during the world's fair would be of inestimable benefit to the boys and the state. This cause is especially presented to the alumni. No contribution is too small.

THE WRESTLER'S CASE.

Mr. Henry (Milo) Steinborn, the strong man who wrestles George Zaharias in the feature match at the auditorium tonight, comes up with a statement in defense of the wrestler.

As to the charges of "acting" or feigning, Steinborn points out that three wrestlers have died from injuries this year and that several, Pete Sauer among them, have been put out for weeks on account of injuries.

"Boxing has a fatality list which is less than wrestling," said Steinborn. "The wrestlers may be good showmen but there is nothing slack about their competition. If anyone sitting out in the spectators' seats thinks a toe hold, a scissors or a headlock is not acutely painful, I will be glad to demonstrate to them. One of the wrestling fatalities occurred in Nashville. The wrestlers do not slack."

Purple Netmen Defeat Smithies

Boys' High tennis team made a clean sweep of the matches with Tech High Saturday on the Candler park courts, winning all seven matches. In the singles, Rainwater defeated Ragdale, 1-6, 7-5, 7-5; Ezzell beat Morris, 6-1, 6-0; Baker beat Carpenter, 6-3, 6-2; Bobbitt defeated Brannan, 6-1, 6-0; and Lindsey beat Bryan, 6-2, 6-3.

One-Day Event At Ansley Park

A one-day medal play tournament for members of the Atlanta Women's Golf Association will be held at 8:30 o'clock this morning at Ansley Park.

Laster To Meet Born Wednesday

Spike Webb, who as the reputation of being the hardest-hitting middleweight in the boxing game, returns to an Atlanta ring Wednesday night after an absence of several months. Webb gained favor with fight fans here in his battles with Ted Goodrich and Styles Attaway.

Four-11 Posey, the youngest who is meeting Webb in the feature bout of Wednesday night's fight carnival at the Candler street arena has been training at Fort Benning for the battle. Posey is a fast, heady boxer and he also packs plenty of power in his punches.

Pepper Stars

Two Men on Sacks When Blow Comes and Braves Lose.

ST. LOUIS, May 22.—(AP)—Pepper Martin, playing despite a sprained ankle that handicapped him in the field, hit a home run with two men on base to break up a pitching duel between Ed Brandt and Bill Walker and give the St. Louis Cardinals a 3-0 victory over the Boston Braves in 10 innings today.

Brandt had the edge in number of hits allowed until the tenth, holding the Red Birds to five safeties, while the Braves made eight off Walker. Watkins singled to start the tenth, but was caught at the plate on Whitehead's single. Then Walker helped his cause by hitting a single and Martin slammed his four-bagger into the left-field bleachers, scoring behind Whitehead and Walker.

Dixie Trackmen To Bid For Honors at Chicago

For the first time in history a southern team will be a real contender for honors at the National Collegiate Athletic Association track and field championships in Chicago in June. Southern athletes and a few squads have competed before but with a goal of only a few points. This June Louisiana State University hopes to finish among the first five teams or perhaps even higher.

L. S. U. Saturday won the South-eastern Conference championship with the largest point total ever made. Its athletes placed in almost every event and set seven new southeastern records.

Glenn Hardin, Al Moreau and Jack Torrance are the best competitors on the team and most of L. S. U.'s points in the national meet likely will be made by this trio.

Hardin has run the quarter mile in around 47 seconds and his skinned the low hurdles in 22.9 seconds—both new record times. Moreau has equalled

BOWLING

COMMERCIAL BOWLS TONIGHT.—The third week of play in the newly-formed summer club league, finds the league-leading Black's bowling center and Tidwell Company teams scheduled to tie up. Also, the East Lake Country Club and American Can Company are slated, as are the Grand Dads and the Davidson-Paxon Company, at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening.

The Black's bowling center team got away to an early lead and at this time holds a two-game edge on the three teams that are tied up for second place.

Top, Gerard, demon scorer of the maple was, is plotting the leaders in real form, and does much toward developing real team spirit among the players.

The American Can Company, an apparently new outfit, has been making great strides toward consistent improvement and should win many games with Kivette at the helm.

Gomez Weakens and Fills Bases But Pulls Out of Hole.

NEW YORK, May 22.—(AP)—Triumphing over Wesley Ferrell in a fine pitching duel, Lefty Gomez hurled a shutout ball to give the New York Yankees a 3-to-0 victory over the Cleveland Indians today.

Gomez pitched a brilliant six hits but the Yankees bunched three of his blows with an error and a base on balls to score all of their runs in the eighth inning and break up Ferrell's brilliant pitching performance.

With the game deadlocked, Ruth reached first safely when Burnett fumbled his grounder. Gehrig forced the Bumbalo at second but Chapman singled and Lazzari walked, filling the bases. Dickey came through with a single to produce two runs and Cross connected with another to score Lazzari.

The finish was drawn a bit fine, however, when following a single by Kamm with two out in the ninth, Gomez wandered and passed Spencer and Ferrell, leading the bases. Gomez Hale to ground out to Lazzari.

Both pitchers were generous with bases on balls. Gomez walking five and Ferrell six. Each struck out four batters. When Ferrell walked, Joe Sewell in the third inning, it was the first time this year the Yankee third baseman had struck out.

U. S. Music Defended, Toscanini Assailed

MINNEAPOLIS, May 22.—(AP)—John Tasker Howard, noted American critic and composer, today defended American music and composers and singled out Arturo Toscanini in citing alleged "discrimination" against them by "conductors in high places."

Speaking before the opening session of the 18th biennial convention of the National Federation of Music Clubs, Howard said, "Toscanini, famous conductor of the New York Philharmonic orchestra, has provided his audiences 'with the finest performances of master works they have ever heard.'"

"But on occasions, this greatest of conductors," Howard said, "...will not hesitate to place on his program some new work by one of his own countrymen, which, in the opinion of both critics and audiences, is frankly mediocre."

"In the seven years he has conducted the Philharmonic he had presented only four American works. If Mr. Toscanini should adopt a policy of presenting only accepted masterpieces that would be at least consistent."

Coaches To Reorganize Dixie College League

By Jack Troy.

The Dixie college baseball league, the untimely demise of which brought a general drop in fan interest, will be reorganized before next season, judging by the favorable attitude of the majority of coaches interested in the game but not forgotten circuit.

Two years of non-league activities have shown that the salvation of the college game lies in organized play. When the league was in operation, there was a great deal of interest around the pennant race and individual performances.

Coach Frank Anderson, of Oglethorpe, last night termed it a "tragedy" that the league was allowed to die.

LEAGUE BEST BET. Anderson further said that it was a proved fact that a league would do more than anything else to again make the spectators college-minded.

"There is no getting away from the fact that the fans are interested in what team is leading, and when you are playing with nothing at stake, there is bound to be a drop in interest."

"Why, when we played Auburn two years ago at Auburn and were tied for the lead there was an splendid crowd out and great enthusiasm displayed. But this year when we went over there to play just another ball game we hardly had anybody at the game."

CULBERTSON ON CONTRACT

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst.

A Resourceful Defense

Mr. Oswald Jacoby has gained most of his Bridge-playing reputation, which is a very fine one, from his unusually brilliant bidding. The fact that he plays so many hands himself, in the minds of many, minimized his skill as a defensive player. But a few days ago, playing at Crookford's Club, New York, he had an opportunity for a most brilliant defense, which defeated a Slam contract. That defense involved giving the Declarer a free finesse in a suit. This was designed to remove the West entry that would make the Slam possible.

NEW YORK, May 22.—Bad prices milled today in relatively narrow range today and were a trifle lower at the finish of a rather dull session.

Most United States government securities moved up fractionally following reports that the federal reserve system had begun purchasing. Officials of the New York Reserve bank declined to comment on the reports.

By JOHN P. BOUGHAN.

CHICAGO, May 22.—Stop loss selling tumbled wheat down today to a maximum of 8 cents a bushel below recent top figures.

Many small speculators who had made eleventh-hour purchases when the wheat market was going up, were pressing to unload today, and found that the aggressive buying which was so much in evidence a short while ago had disappeared.
